o An Information Systems Security Group officer, the Office representative to the Agency Information Systems Board, recently met with Requirements and Technology Working Group counterparts to discuss the group's proposed charter. The representative's recommendation to require that security protective features be engineered in new equipment purchases, in the proposal stage, was favorably received and will be included as an objective.

o To meet increasing requirements for escorts, the Office of Security recently interviewed Agency employees for the Supplemental Security Escort Program. Of those interviewed, were selected whose flexibility coincided with the needs of the program. The program now has a total of Supplemental Security Escorts.
